

The Order is in the Disorder

With or without our willingness to participate, change occurs throughout life. The celestial realm exists within the context of chaos, constant change and motion. Living on Earth, we observe a natural ebb and flow of change in the passage of seasons. We feel overwhelmed and unsettled in the midst of change; however, it is good to remember change often heralds new growth. The timing of the Divine is not often consistent with what we believe ought to be an appropriate time frame. Following Astrological cycles and patterns during difficult transits, one begins to learn to trust Divine timing.

Astrological attention is drawn to the celestial realm and how the energy may reflect on Earth. Astrological transits track constant planetary movements. Astrological aspects refer to how these bodies of energy coincide in relationship with one another. Planetary alignments move within a waxing and waning span of time. Throughout 2009, we have been in the midst of and will continue to experience challenging planetary transits. A strong imprint of Aquarian energy abides. Aquarian energy is a revolutionary energy bringing reform and change. As we potentially escalate further into a growing climate of fear in the midst of unsettling changes, how do we keep balanced? Our way of life as we have known it is in an upheaval.

To learn how to balance and maintain a semblance of balance becomes a necessity during periods of change. One of the definitions of balance is a counter balancing influence. As many people become more destabilized with events that seem to be out of their control, we have a perfect opportunity to counter balance by evolving into deeper understandings of our spiritual cores. Our learning is to trust, surrender and have faith even in the midst of ensuing societal turmoil. The counter balance is held within the belief there is order within the disorder.

Each Zodiac sign has been assigned descriptive key word associations. The Aquarius keyword is To Know. How to listen and learn to trust an inner knowing becomes a growth opportunity. Inner knowing is the voice of wisdom within or a gut sense. Sometimes it is just a knowing that cannot be explained. You can't explain why or how you know what you know – you just know you know. Trust of this knowing develops over time by listening. Listen to your own knowing. Respond by acting upon what you know. Trust and acting upon inner wisdom aligns one in life with the higher universal order. Being aligned with the higher universal order or the Divine will bring a greater sense of balance and well-being.
